The mum who died along with her two daughters when a fire ripped through their Brooklyn apartment has been named and pictured.

Danielle Havens, 48, and her daughters Journee Miles, 11 and 9, were pulled from the burning flat by the New York Fire Department but couldn't be saved.

The fire broke out early Friday morning, April 28, with firefighters being called just after 5am to the four-storey apartment building in Bedford-Stuyvesant.

A fire had broken out in the third-floor apartment, with officials believing it likely started in the kitchen.

Intuitive painting is an amazing kind of restorative medicine for anyone who has tried to paint or draw but thinks that they have no talent or can't draw. It is a way of painting where you switch off the brain and you have no expectations of what you're going to create. You're not worried about the end result. You simply allow your instincts and your senses to lead the way. You are giving yourself permission to play.

Studies show playing boosts your creativity, helps you approach life with excitement and energy and give you a sense of hope. Another study found that playful adults reported having lower stress levels.

Charles's coronation has been modernised to include the first-ever Homage of the People, giving the public an active role in the ancient ceremony for the first time in history.

During the ceremony, Archbishop Justin Welby will call upon 'all persons of goodwill to make their homage, in heart and voice, to their undoubted King, defender of all': not just the people in the Abbey, but people who are online, on television, who are listening, and who are gathered in parks, at big screens and churches.

Formerly serving as the village police station on Didsbury High Street, the 100-year-building has been turned into six luxurious two bedroom flats, while maintaining its heritage at the same time.

The station was closed down a number of years ago, after the force began selling properties to raise funds.

Now the building is unrecognisable inside. The flats, which come unfurnished, feature balconies and private rear gardens, as well as the building's original old police lamp.

They are within excellent reach of the neighbourhood's trendy cafes, shops and restaurants – with quick links to the motorway and tram network for commuters.

Cooper had just arrived outside his new home in Dungannon, when he leapt out of the car and made a run for it.

His remarkable journey saw him walk 40 miles – mostly at night, without any idea where he was or any humans to feed him – to where his life started as a puppy in Tobermore, Co Londonderry.

All of this happened while people were desperately searching for Cooper every day to try and bring him back to his new home in Northern Ireland.

British people are big tea drinkers. They drink it for different reasons. People have it for breakfast, to give to guests, for tea breaks at work, and even when they talk about their problems. The biggest reason for drinking tea was to relax. A quarter of people drink up to 10 cups a day. Brits love milky and sugary tea. Around 85 per cent of them put milk in their tea. Nearly 45 per cent sweeten their tea with sugar. People with a sweet tooth put three teaspoons of sugar in their cup. However, new research shows that herbal, fruit and other teas are now more popular than English breakfast tea.

Some people are very forgetful, while others can remember everything they have done. Scientists know a lot about how our brains store and remember facts and experiences. There is little research on how or why the brain forgets things. A new study looks at forgetting. Their work may help people who have memory problems. It may also help those with depression and dementia. Professor Banich said forgetting is important, it keeps the brain working smoothly. This is important because it means we can focus on more important tasks; intentionally forgetting no-longer-relevant information from the mind is beneficial.

Not everyone likes the joys of spring. Many people love looking at flowering blossoms, but others hate it. This is because pollen from flowers bring allergies like hay fever.

Meteorologists are blaming climate change. The winter's average temperature was 2.7 degrees warmer than the 20th century average. A meteorologist said climate change is resulting in earlier and longer flowering seasons, causing more pollen. She called pollen "the enemy" of allergy sufferers. Pollen can also trigger asthma attacks and worsen mold allergies. Acting on climate change will help people's health.

Vinyl records have been making a comeback. In 2022, vinyl record sales were greater than CD sales for the first time since 1987; there has been a "remarkable" rise in record sales. A giant panda who lived in a zoo in Tennessee for twenty years has returned to China as part of a loan agreement. It was seen as a symbol of friendship between China and America.

However, animal advocates raised concerns about her health after videos surfaced online of her with less fur and underweight, causing China to accuse the US of mistreatment. The zoo had previously denied such allegations and accused activists of spreading false information.

On its website, the zoo said that the Panda lived with a chronic skin and fur condition. This condition didn't affect her quality of life but occasionally made her hair look thin and patchy. The condition was closely monitored by animal care team and veterinary staff.
